

Creepertown

When their unit gets overrun, Army Rangers Cody Wilkins and Jim Swanson narrowly escape the growing horde of undead. Driving an armored Humvee with the delicacy of a battering ram, they strike out for Cody's boyhood home in Boise, Idaho. Unfortunately, the peaceful neighborhood where Cody grew up has not been spared from the global scourge, and the two Rangers are faced with that age-old decision: Fight or flight? The two soldiers are joined in their fight by a varied cast of zombie-fighting heroes including a teenaged Latina and two four-pound chihuahuas, Cheech and Daisy. * * * * *

* * * Fans of Steven L. Hawk's Peace Warrior Trilogy will recognize the military action and fast-paced style that made those books so well-received. In this book, a pair of highly trained Army Rangers are joined by a new type of hero: four-pound Chihuahuas. This book was previously released in Nov 2013 as Chihuahuas of the Zombie Apocalypse.
